Francis Allebaugh Hollingsworth, of Jacksonville, Fla., was made known. Thirty-five guests were invited to spend the morning informally with the Misses Revelle at their home in Winston-Salem, N. C., and upon their arrival were welcomed by Misses Emorie Barber, Elizabeth Hill and Marion Revelle.

In the parlor they were received by Mrs. James I. Lee, Jr., of Greensboro, and Miss Jane Revelle, becomingly gown in black charmeuse with bodice of rose-colored lace with touches of gold. She wore a lovely corsage of Parma violets and lilies of the valley.

The hall, parlor and living-room were effectively decorated with pinks, ferns and pink roses and dahlias. Here tables were arranged for the game of "Hearts." The table cards bore tiny red anemones as decorations, while the scores were kept with these same emblems.

The score prize, a deck of cards in a morocco case, was won by Miss Mattie Lee, who was the hostess presented to Miss Lill Farris, a bride-elect, lovely pale pink lace-de-soie.

Following the games, little Jack Lee, of Greensboro, entered the room, bearing a large stemmed basket filled with bow of broad pink satin ribbon and wreathed with asparagus fern. Among the fronds of fern pink tulle bouquets were hidden. Tied within the tulle folds were rose-clustered cards bearing the interesting announcement.

Miss Revelle is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yates Revelle and is a member of one of North Carolina's oldest and most prominent families, a grand-niece of Congressman Jesse Yates and, on her maternal side, a descendant of the distinguished Bacon family of Virginia.

Mr. Hollingsworth is a son of the late Dr. Charles Melton Hollingsworth, of Harrisonburg, and a nephew of General Holler, also of Harrisonburg. He is an alumnus of Washington and Lee University and is at present associated with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad at Jacksonville.

The marriage will be celebrated in the First Presbyterian Church, in Winston-Salem, early in December and will be one of the season's leading social events.

FINAL WEEK OF PICTURE AND ANSWER BOOK SALE

Have You Made Up Your Mind as to Whether or Not You Want an Answer Book?

One of the hardest things in the world for anybody to do is to make up his or her mind about anything. Take the Booklovers' Contest Game, for instance. Have you decided whether or not you will get an Answer Book? Well, whether you have or not, all the Times-Dispatch now wants to say is:

You must get it this week, to get it at all.

Make up your mind finally by Saturday next, at the latest, for on that day the sale of Answer Books, as well as of pictures and catalogues, will end.

Monday, October 27, will be the first of the six days during which sets must be sent in, and all sets must be in the Times-Dispatch office by Saturday 6 P. M., November 1.

Sets sent through the mail, however, and received later than November 1, will be accepted, provided they are postmarked previous to 6 P. M. of November 1.

Whether or not you decide to get an Answer Book depends chiefly upon whether or not you propose to submit all the answers to the pictures that you think may be of use to you. If you make only forty extra answers, you do not have an Answer Book, you will have to get forty extra pictures and coupons on which to submit those answers, and that means 80 cents right there, for the pictures cost 2 cents each. And forty extra answers is just a beginning, for you will really submit, if you are shrewd, several hundred extra answers!

For 75 cents—80 cents by mail—you can buy an Answer Book, and then make as many as ten different answers to each picture, if you wish, while having only one copy of each picture.

Of course, this question as to the number of answers to submit must be decided by contestants for themselves. Some contestants probably will submit only one answer to each picture, feeling certain that they have the correct answer to each one. Others will submit only one answer to each picture, with the idea of "taking a chance."

But others will take no chances. They will make as certain as is possible, and submit all the answers they have found in the catalogue. And remember the figures given in the right story not long ago of a similar contest conducted on a large Eastern paper. The number of first prize winners was more than 500 answers in all, and the other grand prize winners used similarly large lists.

And at the first prize winner got only seventy-five of the correct titles!

KAISER HAD PLANNED JOURNEY TO PRAGUE

Recent Trip Proposed by Kaiser Postponed Because of Publication of Intentions.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY.

PARIS is not the only great city which the Kaiser is anxious to visit, and from which he is virtually barred. He has long been eager to make a stay at Prague, which is so extraordinarily interesting from an historical point of view, and which has been identified to such an extent with the annals of the Old German Empire. He had recently made all his arrangements to spend a couple of days there, in the strictest incognito, while on his way to the shooting party arranged in his honor by Archduke Francis Ferdinand, at the latter's Bohemian castle and estate of Konopischt.

Unfortunately some intimation of secret intentions found its way to the Prague newspaper "Bohemia," which is the organ of the German element in the ancient kingdom of Saint Wenceslaus, and it at once published the news, declaring that all the German population of Bohemia would flock to the city to accompany him to his most enthusiastic and typically German welcome.

This course has had the effect of rendering the proposed visit impossible, for a long time to come. For the Germans and the Czechs of Bohemia, which represent respectively 45 and 55 per cent of the entire population, are so terribly embittered against one another, as to have rendered autonomous government and provincial legislation impossible, Bohemia being at the present moment administered directly in the name of the crown, by an imperial commissioner.

The Germans of Bohemia have always accused the Viennese government of unduly favoring the Czech element at their expense, and have clamored so loudly about their alleged wrongs, as to have excited a very pronounced sentiment and even agitation in Germany in their behalf. Moreover, they have repeatedly from platform and in print, expressed yearning for the day when they should be emancipated from Hapsburg rule, and be incorporated as part and parcel of the German empire, for which they express a decided preference. A visit of the Kaiser to Prague, under the circumstances, would lead to a series of a nature to give great offence to the Austrian government and people, and could not but affect unpleasantly his relations with the court of Vienna. As the matter stands now, he cannot go to Prague, because his welcome there by the German would be too friendly, and he cannot go to Paris, because of the fear that his reception, at any rate on the part of the populace, would be too hostile.

Major Francis Farquhar, of the Goldstream Guards, who sailed on Saturday last with the Duke and Duchess of Connaught for Canada, as military secretary of the Governor-General at Ottawa, in the place of Lieutenant Colonel Lowther, of the Scots Guards, is the only surviving son and heir of Sir Thomas Farquhar, of Gilmintcroft, in Ayrshire, fourth baronet of his line, and is a distant cousin of Lord Farquhar.

The major, who is a predecessor on the staff of the duke, is married man, his wife being Lady Evelyn, sister of the present Earl of Donoughmore, a peer who has an American wife, in the person of Miss Grace, of New York. Lady Evelyn accompanies the major with their two little daughters.

The Farquhars are descended from Sir Robert Farquhar, of Gilmintcroft, in Ayrshire, who was Deputy Receiver of Scotland in the reign of Charles I. His great-grandson, Walter, was physician to the Prince Regent, who created him a baronet for his medical services, and his uncle, Granville Farquhar, a very wealthy member of the London Stock Exchange, is married to a daughter of the late Edward L. Livingston, of New York, and is a familiar figure on this side of the Atlantic, while another uncle, Arthur, also an officer of the Goldstream Guards, was killed in the Sudan, in the massacre of General Hicks, and of his Egyptian army, at El Obeid, in 1883. He died unmarried, but had previously been the subject of a great deal of gossip over here, in connection with the romance in the life of a Philadelphia woman, now dead, who in her younger days was celebrated in the Old World as well as in the New, for her beauty, and for her riches. It was on the strength of this romance that a claim was put forward some time after her death to her fortune, by a young fellow who claimed to be the son of Arthur Farquhar and his uncle, Granville Farquhar, and who was disproved and thrown out of court, after a lawsuit at Philadelphia, which involved a good deal of objectionable aspersions of the dead, and which was a shameful affair in every respect.

Still another uncle of the Duke of Connaught's new military secretary, is Fitzroy Farquhar, who has had an extraordinary career, having been in turn a Hussar officer, a banker, a broker, agent for a steel manufacturing concern, a newspaper man, and all sorts of other things besides, and unfortunately in every one of them—and winding up in the bankruptcy court. One of Major Farquhar's sisters is the wife of Sir Almeric Fitzroy, clerk, secretary and clerk of the Privy Council.

The major has seen active service in South Africa, where he won the Distinguished Service Order, by conspicuous gallantry on the battlefield, received a medal for his participation in the operations against the Mad Mullah, in Somaliland, and helped to organize England's Chinese regiment of infantry at Wei-Hai-Wei.

There are two other baronets as well as a peerage in the Farquhar family. Thus, the second son of the prince regent's physician, above referred to, was the first Governor and commander-in-chief of the Mauritius, after its conquest in 1811. Exercising a species of suzerainty over Madagascar, he placed on the throne of that great island the Radama dynasty, of which the ex-Queen Ranaivo, of Madagascar, now a captive of France, in Algeria, is the last representative. He was made a baronet for his services, as Sir Robert Townsend Farquhar, and four of his sons in turn have held that baronetcy, the present possessor thereof being a septuagenarian bachelor, who formerly held a commission in the Royal Artillery. His next heir is his brother, Horace, who won for himself not only a baronetcy on his own account, but also a barony, by virtue of which he sits in the House of Lords. As he has no issue the Townsend Farquhar baronetcy will then go to the only remaining brother, Gilbert Farquhar, the actor and playwright.

Lord Farquhar has been one of the most influential figures of the present and last two reigns. He received both his baronetcy and his peerage as a token of regard of Queen Victoria, was master of the royal household throughout the reign of Edward VII., and during the first two years of the present reign, reorganizing the royal establishment from top to bottom, and abolishing almost incredible abuses and extravagances. He was the most trusted confidant of King Edward in all his business matters, was the fiduciary of his will, and is the trustee of the marriage settlements of the young Duchess of Fife, whose wedding took place in London last week.

By profession Lord Farquhar is a banker. He has been connected in turn with the banking firm of Forbes, Forbes & Company, of which he became a partner at twenty-two, and was partner of the great banking house of Sir Samuel Scott & Company, of Paris Bank, of the London and Westminster Bank, and of the Herries, Farquhar & Company Bank, while for some years past he is understood to have been associated in a business way with Sir Ernest Cassel, the multimillionaire Anglo-German financier. He is married to the widow of his former partner, Sir Edward Scott. He is stepfather, therefore, of the present Sir Samuel Scott, to whom he will undoubtedly bequeath his extensive property. His peerage and his baronetcy will become extinct on his demise.

For many years he has resided in the Rising, one of the finest places in Norfolk, within easy motoring distance of Sandringham. It originally belonged to King Alfred, and during the reign of Edward III, served for twenty years as the prison of his mother, Queen Isabella, as a punishment for her share in the shocking murder of his father, Edward II, by Opp. Ala.—In a letter from this town, Mrs. Carrie May writes as follows: "About two months after I married I began to have very bad weak spells and terrible headaches. I felt miserable all the time, and soon got to where I couldn't hardly stay up. After the third month I got down completely.

I was young, had never been sick before, and I just didn't know what to do. I thought I would die.

My husband, at last, got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me so he got another bottle. When I had taken the second bottle I was well.

I wish that every woman suffering from womanly trouble would give Cardui a trial. It is the best medicine on earth for womanly weakness."

Are you weak, tired, worn-out? Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women? If so, take Cardui.

As a remedy for women's ills, Cardui has been most successful. It is purely vegetable, composed of ingredients which have been found to build up the vitality and strengthen the womanly constitution, as well as prevent or relieve those terrible pains from which weak women suffer.

Cardui is worth trying. Judging from the experience of a million other women who have been benefited by this remedy, it should surely do you good.
